DRAGON BOAT FESTIVAL

ABOUT DRAGON BOAT RACING

The history of dragon boat racing is rooted in ancient Chinese folk traditions dating back more than 2000 years. The modern sport emerged in Hong Kong in the 1970's and has grown in popularity to become one of the fastest growing team sports in the world. Nearly 50 million people competed in the sport last year and there is even a movement to make dragon boat racing an Olympic sport. Dragon boat racing is the ultimate water sport for all abilities, ages, and background, and no experience is necessary. The sport provides numerous benefits from increasing fitness to fostering team building skills to creating social connections in the community.

THE DRAGON BOAT

The dragon boat is a long, narrow canoe with an ornately carved dragon's head and tail. The boats are 46 feet long and seat 20 paddlers, a drummer and a steerer. The paddlers sit two by two on ten benches on the boat. They paddle in unison to the beat of the drum to "fly" the dragon across the water. The boats are rented through a company called Dynamic Dragon Boat Racing LLC who provides all of the boats, paddles, drums, and life jackets for the event.

BUILDING A DRAGON BOAT TEAM

Team work is everything in dragon boat racing. Each team consists of paddlers, a drummer, a steerer and a few alternates. The minimum number of paddlers is 16 while the maximum is 20. Each team is required to have at least eight female paddlers. No exceptions. Each team appoints a drummer to sit at the front of the boat to beat the drum to maintain the team's pace. It is recommended that the drummer weigh less than 175 pounds. The drummer's role is crucial for team coordination, so choose wisely. The steerer stands in the rear of the boat and keeps the team on course. The steerer is provided by the racing company.

Each team can have a minimum of 17 crew members (16 paddlers and a drummer) with a maximum of 21 (20 paddlers and a drummer). All crew members must be over the age of 15. It is recommended that each team have 2-3 alternates which would allow for a total of up to 24 team members per team. If a team cannot fill the boat or meet the female requirements, community partners can be added to complete the team.

THE RACE

The race will take place behind the Stonewall Resort at the Little Sorrel boat dock. The course is 200 meters and the average time for each race is a little over 1 minute. The teams compete in heats, semi-finals, and finals to determine the overall winner. Each team will race two to four times.
